

SuperSixties at the ADAC Hansa Racing Days – TT Circuit Assen

Jan van der Kooi was the man to beat in SuperSixties at the ADAC Hansa weekend on the Assen TT-Circuit on the weekend of 27-28 September. After taking pole, he made it two out of two by winning Sunday's race in a repeat of his Saturday performance, leading from the green light and only giving up P1 for a short while during the compulsory pitstop.

On Saturday Luc de Cock (Lotus Elan) and Oliver Douglas (Shelby Cobra Daytona) entertained with a scrap for second. An off-track excursion by Niek van Gils in the TVR caused a full course yellow, which allowed Douglas to close the gap and pass the Elan. On the podium, he sportily changed places with De Cock to restore the order. First touring car home was Carlo Hamilton in the Ford

Falcon, while Dante and Jop Rappange came a giant killing sixth overall in the white Cooper S.

On Sunday Douglas finished third on the road behind de Cock in the Daytona Cobra, but dropped to fifth after a 15 second time penalty was applied for a pitstop that was marginally too short. That handed the final podium place to Niek van Gils, who drove a great race from the back of the grid in his TVR Griffith after his mishap on Saturday. Carlo Hamilton was again unbeatable amongst the touring cars, followed home by Norbert Gross and Hemmo Vriend in a train of Ford Falcons.

With still two races to run it is very tight in the SuperSixties points table. Jan van de Kooi, Luc de Cock and Norbert Gross are separated by just a few points.
